Blaze in Sub-Zero Temperature Causes Damage of $20,000

LETTERS DESTROYED

Tax Notices Mailed by Collector Lost in Flames; Firemen Overcome by Cold

By International News Service
QUAKERTOWN, Jan. 30.—Fire that raged in sub-zero temperatures early today destroyed the general store and postoffice at Springtown, eight miles northeast of Quakertown, causing damage estimated at $20,000.

The postoffice's entire stock of stamps, hundreds of letters and 200 tax notices mailed last night by Tax Collector Levi Stever were lost in the flames.

Several firemen were overcome by the bitter weather prevailing while companies from Riegelsville, Hellertown and Richlandtown fought vainly to stem the blaze.

Postmaster Harold Stoneback, owner of the general store, could not account for origin of the fire but said the loss of his grocery stock was covered partly by insurance. Firemen were able to save nearby buildings by pumping water from a stream several hundred feet away.

FARM CHANGES OWNERS 3 TIMES IN 300 YEARS

Ingram Property Near Sellersville Originally Owned By Fred'k Penn

OWNED BY MILLERS

SELLERSVILLE, Jan. 30.—In a period of three centuries, the Ingram farm, which is located four miles west of this borough, has changed hands for the third time. The property, owned originally by Frederick Penn has had but few owners since Penn's time.

In 1776 the historic estate was first conveyed by Frederick Penn to Lewis P. Reeder. Those were the days when William Penn and his brothers were chopping up the state into small plots, some of which became sites for what now are towns and cities. The Ingram farm stood the test of centuries and today looks much as it did in Penn's days. The huge three-story stone house of colonial design still stands in its original condition high on the hill overlooking Bucks and Montgomery counties.

Ingram's hill is a landmark known and respected by motorists as being the steepest in the two counties. The road, by the way, is half in Bucks and half in Montgomery.

After Reeder bought the 41-acre farm from Penn he held it until 1866, when he deeded it to Jane Ingram. It remained the Ingram farm until 1941, having just been conveyed to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller of Philadelphia. The Millers plan to remodel the house for a summer home. William Ingram, in his will, worded the document in such a manner as to tie up his estate until the death of his son and daughter. This no doubt he did so that the old home would remain in the Ingram family to the very last.

Emily Stephens, who was William Ingram's daughter, died last summer, leaving to survive two nieces, Emily Walton and Alice Marble, who conveyed title to the Millers for $6,000.

Greenberg's Appeal Rejected

Philadelphia, Jan. 30.—The state superior court today rejected an appeal of Adam Greenberg, 56, from a sentence of six months to two years, and a fine of $300 for burning of his Black Cat Inn on Easton Road, in Plumstead Township, October 6, 1938.

Greenberg was sentenced in Bucks County Court of Oyer and Terminer, February, 1940, following his conviction in a second trial. He was indicted for arson November 29, 1938, and was convicted in his first trial in November, 1939, but won a new day in court on an appeal.

Judge J. E. Cunningham, who wrote the opinion, said: "The appellant had a fair trial in which his rights were fully protected. His conviction was due to the cumulative and overwhelming weight of evidence."

Germany Has No Aims For World Domination, Says Hitler in Speech

Berlin, Jan. 30.—Germany is fighting simply to throw off the yoke of "British world domination," Reichsfuehrer Hitler declared today.

"Germany has no aims for world domination," the Fuehrer said. "In reality, Great Britain conquered the world."

In a speech at the Berlin Sportsplatz on the eighth anniversary of his rise to power, Hitler said that "The American President"—presumably President Roosevelt—himself had absolved the German people of blame for the conditions which followed the last World War and led to the present conflict.

"No government since its inauguration has gone through so many historic events as the National Socialist regime," he said. "Eight years ago, no one believed it possible that my government could survive."

"The chaotic conditions then prevailing stemmed directly from the manner in which the last world war was concluded. I do not wish to discuss personalities. But the American President himself has stated that the conditions prevailing in Germany cannot be laid at the door of the German people."

"What caused the war of 1914-1918? Certainly the German government of that time was not responsible. It was in a sense a democracy—or a compromise between monarchy and democracy."

Germany's desire to carry on world trade was as natural as that of Britain in expanding her empire, he said.

"What kind of government is responsible for the imperialism of Britain?" Hitler asked. "Certainly not a democratic government."

Hitler again charged that Britain's aim is to disorganize Europe to maintain her own power. "This British rule over so large a portion of the earth," he said, "is perpetuated not upon an ideal but upon power politics."

MORRISVILLE POLICE GET NEW RADIO CAR

Expect New Car To Be Placed In Service Some Time This Week

ANSWERED MANY CALLS

MORRISVILLE, Jan. 30.—This borough has purchased a new radio-equipped police car which it is expected will go into service this week. The new car will be the second in the history of the borough, the first one having been placed in service in March 1939.

Chief Cooper's report for 1940 shows that the radio car traveled a total of 25,912 miles in answering 845 calls. Other figures listed include 184 arrests, with 92 for motor vehicle and traffic violations and 62 for disorderly conduct, etc. A total of 71 auto accidents were investigated, eight stolen cars recovered and numerous other incidents aided greatly by the police car. During 1940, the car was used 19 times to take persons to a Trenton hospital and once to rush a maternity case to Mercer Hospital.

Residents of the borough feel that the car is of great value, as they have protection within two or three minutes after they report an accident, robbery, etc. The car patrols the borough streets daily and by dialing 2-3441 and asking for radio residents have the police protection always available.

Chief Cooper is on duty daily from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m., when Officer Joseph Lebegern takes over from 5 p. m. until 1 a. m. Then either Officers Andrew Thompson or James Walsh are on duty from 1 a. m. until 5 a. m. The car is out of service from 5 until 8 a. m., but residents may get police by dialing the same as they would were the car in service. A system from the Trenton Radio Police is set-up in Chief Cooper's office so that he can immediately contacted during the three off-hours.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Mr. Berle and The Future

Washington, Jan. 29. IN an Administration which for eight years has self-righteously assumed to have a monopoly upon what Mr. Roosevelt likes to refer to as "forward-looking men," it is interesting to note that in the world crisis with which it is now dealing there seems hardly one who is looking more than a few inches ahead of his nose.

CERTAINLY the President's lack of anything resembling an adequate financial program to carry the vast appropriations for defense is an indication that he is not thinking very far into the future. Nor, except for the prediction of great national peril should the British collapse, is there any evidence that anyone else in a position of administrative importance has projected his thought beyond the lead-lease bill. Some of the more advanced of the New Dealers are engaged in an undercover campaign against the industrialists in the defense setup. Some are concentrating upon the present and prospective Supreme Court vacancies. Others are simply absorbed in themselves and their jobs.

—o—

THERE is one exception to all this—one man who, taking the long view, is thinking of the problems to follow the war, reflecting upon the terrific task which will then devolve upon us. In a small volume just published by Harper and Brothers and entitled "New Directions in the New World," Mr. Adolf A. Berle, Jr., Assistant Secretary of State, does exactly that. Moreover, he does it in an extremely arresting way—particularly it will seem so to those who

HOUSE SECTIONS CUT HERE; WAR-TIME WORK

Then Shipped To Indianhead, Md., Where Structures Are Being Fabricated

LEASE TWO BUILDINGS

A new war-time activity is underway in Bristol. Sections for houses which are to be fabricated in Western Maryland are being made here on a mass production basis. The sections after being constructed are being trucked daily to Indianhead, Md., where the sections are to be put together, forming dwellings of four rooms and bath, and some larger. The building operation in Maryland is reportedly for a munitions plant, a war-time activity.

Approximately 40 men are engaged in constructing the sections which work is being done in two large buildings of the Tan Art Company, formerly the plant of Lucius Beebe & Sons, Beaver street. The buildings have been leased, and the work is under supervision of Henry Palmer Company, of Langhorne.

The sections are constructed of a composition material which is nailed on both sides of the cross-sections, leaving an air space for insulation between. The material is being trucked into Bristol, being delivered daily at the Tan Art plant, where long tables, and an electrically-operated saw have

Italy's Major Offensive In Albania Is Halted

ATHENS, Jan. 30.—(INS)—Italy's major offensive on the northern Albanian front has come to a temporary halt in the face of iron-clad Greek resistance, latest reports from the battle front said today.

While the nation mourned the death of Premier John Metaxas, but resolved to fight on despite loss of his leadership, military advances indicated the Italian commander in Albania, Gen. Ugo Cavallero, halted the Fascist drive after four days of futile, sacrificial attacks.

These reports said Cavallero now is believed to be awaiting more reinforcements, both in men and equipment, to replace the heavy losses his forces have suffered in fierce, hand-to-hand battles with the Greeks.

"All Out" British Aid Bill Before House Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(INS)—The Administration's "all out" British aid bill, modified by the House Foreign Affairs Committee with approval of President Roosevelt, may be thrust before the House late today.

As the Democratic majority of the committee, working with clock-like precision, smothered Republican attempts to put more drastic curbs on Presidential power, a favorable report on the measure was certain.

Meantime, Democratic leaders agreed upon a schedule to speed passage of the "Lend-Lease" measure in an effort to get some further aid to Britain before the anticipated German attempt to invade the British Isles this Spring.

Willkie Finds Self In Midst of Daylight Alarm

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(INS)—Wendell L. Willkie found himself in the middle of a heavy daylight anti-aircraft barrage today when an air raid alarm caught him on a tour of London.

The excitement occurred shortly after 11.30 a. m. when warning sirens screamed London's second alarm of the day.

A few minutes later a raider flew low over London, drawing a terrific burst of fire from ground guns.

Like thousands of other persons, Willkie peered at the sky and listened to the menacing drone of the low-flying machine.

Thousands of persons scrambled for cover when the plane appeared and the guns began to roar.

Earlier, Willkie expressed his willingness to testify regarding Britain before a Congressional Committee in Washington. Last night he toured London's air raid shelters.

Fight On To Liberalize Liquor Laws of State

HARRISBURG, Jan. 30.—(INS)—A fight to revise and liberalize the State's liquor laws is today shaping up around a series of measures introduced in the General Assembly.

One of the most drastic of the proposed revisions in the law by which the $50,000,000 Pennsylvania liquor monopoly is conducted by the state would bring a return to the Brooks high license system of pre-prohibition days.

Five measures in all have been sponsored already, all in the House, which seek to change the liquor law. Summarized, they would:

1. Enact a liquor license law under which all beer and liquor licenses would be granted only by county courts. By Rep. Albert L. O'Connor (D), Cambria.

2. Permit the sale of liquor, as well as beer, for use off the premises. By Reps. Earl Chudoff (D), Philadelphia, and O'Connor.

3. Legalize Sunday sales and extend the closing hours of bars on weekdays. By Reps. Edward C. Schwab (D), Luzerne, and Harry P. O'Neill (D), Lackawanna.

4. Exempt clubs from the provisions of the quota law. By Reps. C. O. Williams (D), Washington, and John J. Baker (D), Allegheny.

5. Bar the Liquor Control Board from suspending or revoking a license for any alleged violation of law or regulation for which prosecution has been brought in court and no conviction found.

COMPARISON AND CONTRAST

Two essays on education by members of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching should be of interest not only to educators but also to the general public. Dr. William S. Learned reports on a seven year study of the lasting effects of a college education. Dr. Walter Albert Jessup, president of the Foundation, discusses his comparative survey of the educational systems of the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany.

As to Doctor Learned's conclusion that college graduates remember things learned in the classroom longer than is supposed, this is relatively unimportant. There is a certain satisfaction in being able to quote favorite lines from literature, recognize a principle of mathematics when it is encountered, or discover a connection between a current event and past history.

But if the attitude is adopted that both high school and college curricula are valuable not for remembered knowledge but for the development of a capacity to educate oneself thereafter, the report is interesting without being highly significant.

But Doctor Jessup presents some provocative data on the educational process in four countries. Briefly, his survey indicates that since the advent of Nazism Germany has scorned intellectualism and set up a rigid, arbitrary code based on political expediency. France, before the German conquest, was moving toward individualism in education. Great Britain, though democratic enough to offer opportunity for higher learning to all classes, specializes in developing an elite group mostly recruited from fairly well-to-do families.

The United States, on the contrary, "educates not for the selection of an elite but for the widest diffusion of understanding and knowledge." Mass education is the objective in America. The advantage of this is obvious, for in a republic such as this the very destiny of the nation depends upon a literate, intelligent, and well informed citizenry. But there is also a disadvantage. In bringing a moderately good education to the many the system is handicapped in bringing a much better one to those who have the most promise. The tendency is to hold the brilliant down to the average level.

The problem, then, which is confronting American educators is to find a program which will permit some of the individualistic results of the French system and some of the selective techniques of the British system without disturbing unduly the main purpose of spreading education throughout the entire nation. Such a program would have to challenge the better-than-average student to go beyond standard requirements, and the unusual, or unorthodox, student to develop his peculiar talent.

According to a ladies' magazine which reveals the pet peeves of modern wives, they seem to like everything about marriage except having a man around.

The Townsend plan has been discredited and discarded. The politicians have found they can get more support by offering more cash without the taxes.

Note to proofreaders: Even though the copy says "million," you are probably safe in assuming it's an error. The only word in common use begins with a "b."

AT THE CAPITOL

HARRISBURG, Jan. 30.—Republican organization leaders, meeting at Harrisburg Wednesday for an executive committee conference, are expected to throw out among themselves what proposed action, if any, should be taken against dissidents within the party. Other party members are scheduled to gather in Pittsburgh again soon for another "grass roots" meeting, the first of which was initiated by Allegheny County chairman Frank J. Harris, anti-organization Republican, with the announced purpose of "reviving the Republican party."

There may be no public statement after the meeting unless the executive committee decides to convoke the state committee in special session, which at present looks unlikely. Nevertheless, the subject will be thoroughly debated. Republican state chairman James F. Torrance recently issued a statement regarded as a reply to Harris and Lycoming County treasurer, W. Clyde Harer, who also attacked the organization's leadership. One veteran Republican leader, Paul B. Houck, Jr., Schuylkill County chairman, scoffed at reports that any effective opposition to GOP state leadership existed at this time.

The Edmonds home rule bill is evoking considerable interest on Capitol Hill. Legislative clerks say many requests have been made for copies of the bill. The measure to permit cities to modernize their municipal governments was introduced in the Senate on January 13 and is now in committee. It is sponsored by Sen. Franklin Spencer Edmonds, Montgomery County Republican. Commenting on his measure, Edmonds said: "It is basically a test of whether government is the voice of the people or whether the people are to be forever subjugated to the will of government, whatever the inefficiencies of those in control."

Pennsylvania is said to rank first in the nation in the number of cities of 10,000 or more population, according to the 1940 Federal census. The state was reported as having 103 communities of 10,000 or more population, 25 more than Massachusetts, the State with the second largest number.

Thrifty Pork Dishes

By Katharine Fisher

Director, Good Housekeeping Institute

Because pork is one of the less-expensive meats it is a favorite in many homes, particularly at this time of the year. In buying pork—or any meat—be sure you look for the government's round, purple stamp. "U. S. Inspected and Passed." This stamp guarantees that the meat was safe and wholesome when inspected. Remember, too, that pork must be thoroughly cooked. Never forget that! It won't become dried out and unappetizing, if you follow the Institute's directions below.

When roasting pork here are four "musts" necessary to achieve perfect results. Use an uncovered roaster; place roast, fat side up, on a small, open-meshed, wire trivet or rack; don't add water; and don't baste the meat.

Boned Rolled Shoulder, wt. 4½ to 5½ lbs. (after rolling). Roast in a moderate oven of 350° F., allowing 45 min. per lb.

Boned Stuffed Shoulder, wt. 6 to 8 lbs. (before stuffing). Roast in a moderate oven of 350° F., allowing 40 min. per lb.

Roast Pork Loin, A 2½- to 3½-lb. loin (about 9 chops) requires 35 min. per lb. in a moderate oven of 350° F. It may be roasted in a very hot oven of 500° F. for 15 min., then at 350° F. for the rest of the time, allowing 34 min. per pound. A 3½- to 4½-lb. loin (about 12 chops) requires 34 min. per pound in a moderate oven of 350° F. Or it may be roasted in a very hot oven of 500° F. for 15 min., then at 350° F. for the rest of the time, allowing 30 min. per lb.

(All Recipes Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

Use Institute-approved measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

Spareribs

Place half of the spareribs in bottom of an uncovered baking pan, cover with the onions, and top with remaining spareribs. Combine remaining ingredients, except potatoes, and pour over ribs. Bake in a moderate oven of 350° F. for 10 min. Drain and arrange in pan around spareribs. Bake in a moderate oven of 350° F. about 2 hrs., or until well browned and tender. Serves 6. For 2 or 3, make ½ this recipe.

Stuffed Pork Shoulder

Combine all ingredients but the pork, and use to stuff the shoulder. (Boning it has left a pocket.) Tie up firmly with strong cord and roast in a moderate oven of 350° F., allowing 40 min. per lb. (unstuffed weight).

Pork and Noodle Casserole (Using Pork Leftovers)

Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Sauté onion in butter in a skillet until tender. Add remaining ingredients and the noodles, and mix thoroughly. Pour into a greased 1½-qt. baking dish, and bake in a moderate oven of 350° F. for 40 min. Serves 6 generously. To serve 2 or 3, make ½ this recipe.

Pork, Potatoes, and Sauerkraut (Using Pork Leftovers)

Mix sauerkraut with apple and place in a greased shallow 2-qt. casserole. Arrange alternate slices of pork and rows of sliced potatoes on top. Cover with a moderately thick layer of browned pork and onion sauce. Bake in a moderate oven of 350° F. for 1½ hrs., or until potatoes are tender. Serves 4 generously.

WOTAN'S WEDGE

by FRANCIS GERARD
A PRELUDE
TO BLITZKRIEG

CHAPTER TWENTY

The intruder was seated in a high winged chair facing the door, his elbow resting on the arm. Klover looked into the man's face and felt his mouth go dry. It was a face he knew. . . dimly. It was brutal with small porcine eyes twinkling malevolently from deep folds of fat. The mouth was loose with great blubber lips and the jaw beneath it protruded. The top of his inverted pear-shaped head was no thicker across than his neck. It was a dreadful, abysmal head. . . almost inhumanly hideous, terribly near the brute.

Yet the man was smiling—the thick lips rolled back, showing big fang-like teeth.

Klover made a supreme effort to keep the recognition from showing upon his own features and demanded harshly, "Who are you and what do you want?"

"For answer the man broke into a laugh but it was unnerving since he made no sound. His big body shook with merriment but his silence was sinister.

"I repeat," said Klover, "what do you want?"

"Why not speak German?" asked the ogre in that language, his voice a rumbling growl which seemed to come from abdominal depths.

Klover shrugged. "If you wish it," he said. "Why not? I am a German."

"A German?"

Siegfried frowned. "Certainly," he said fondly. "I am a citizen of the Greater Reich."

"But sometime a citizen of Osterreich," nodded the other. "Poor Austria!" he ended, his cruel lips twisting into a smile which never reached his pale eyes.

Klover said nothing. The other waved him to a chair with the barrel of the automatic and Klover sat down. "So," went on the intruder, "we will talk."

Once more the brutal face twisted in that grimace which was supposed to be a smile. "So, it is Klover now? Siegfried Klover, I am told. Now that, my friend, interests me."

The tall dark man gave up his attempt at non-recognition and said evenly, "What is it you want, Stutz?"

"So," commented the other, "So you recall my name. . . at long. . . last. . . And it is this very matter of names which interests me—Hermann." He paused and smiled again. "You see, I have not forgotten. I have an excellent memory for faces—and names."

"What do you want?" repeated the supposed Siegfried.

Stutz made no immediate reply. He allowed his eye to wander round the room, nodding approvingly as he eyed the furniture and fittings.

"They tell me you have a car, too, my dear—Hermann," observed Stutz suddenly. "Now I. . . I have no car. Also I have very little money since my somewhat hurried departure from the Fatherland."

Klover exploded. "Blackmail, hey? You always were a sneaking cur, Stutz. Even when you wore the storm trooper brown shirt, you were the slagger type—the store wrecker. But your own kind found you out, how you were stealing and extorting on the side. It's a pity you ran away before you faced a firing squad, but that would be too clean a death for you!"

Stutz shrugged. "Rave on if it helps you, I'll listen."

"How much do you want?" asked Klover abruptly. "Speak up!"

"My dear Hermann, don't let us stoop to sordid details so soon after our reunion. You see, my friend, the English police or intelligence might be interested to know, er—this business of false names, for instance—and passports."

Klover rose from his chair, stood looking down at the other. The automatic Stutz's hand moved to cover him the whole time.

"Listen," he said, "I have something to say, you, Erich Stutz, are a German. You are now an exile for ugly reasons. But though you have run afoul of the present administration back home, you are still a German, Stutz. Does not that fact weigh with you, if you have any?"

"Listen," he said, "I have something to say, you, Erich Stutz, are a German. You are now an exile for ugly reasons. But though you have run afoul of the present administration back home, you are still a German, Stutz. Does not that fact weigh with you, if you have any?"

here, in England, to serve Germany? Are you so lost to all sense of decency that you cannot remember your German blood and your duty to the Fatherland?

"Interfere with me, Stutz, and you interfere with a plan upon which the future of our Fatherland and all Europe may well rest. Willingly I will give you money if you are in need, but do nothing which may jeopardize the work I am doing here."

When finished speaking, Siegfried Klover stood looking into the icy eyes of Stutz who smiled again and said, "Bravo, Hermann! Bravo! That was an excellent performance! Now, shall we discuss what my allowance is to be?"

"You—!" said Klover, "but broke off quickly, knowing that Stutz must be appeased. . . ."

The girl put down her coffee cup on the boy's table and looked to where General von Wallenfels sat staring into the fireplace, the ash on his neglected cigar growing longer and longer.

"A penny for your thoughts, Uncle Max," she said suddenly in English. Max von Wallenfels looked up.

"A penny," he echoed in the same language.

It was his habit to speak English to one another, it being wiser in Nazi Germany to use another language than German where every wall may be an ear and every corner may conceal a spy.

The general shook his crooked, grey head. "You would have to pay me a great deal more than a penny, Adheid."

The Graf von Adheid von Reinhold made no reply. . . . To any man less absorbed in thought, she would have been appreciated as a very charming companion. She was a natural ash-blond of that almost Scandinavian type you find in the Baltic provinces of Germany. Her beauty, save for her coloring, seemed, however, more French than German in that she was essentially fine and had no trace of that stolidity which so often stamps the pretty woman in Germany. Her eyes were blue, so dark a blue as to seem almost violet, and though her mouth, generous of lip, held more than a hint of charming promise,

RECIPES: Those Which Interest Women

Resolved: To Guard Nutrition In Family Menus

Even if New Year's resolutions to you are but spoken, then broken, you might still be a little better off for at least bringing your faults into the open.

That's the theory of Inez S. Willson, home economist, who suggests that when you take inventory of your habits at the beginning of the year, you also check on the family menus.

Take a typical day's meals and see if they are up to par, nutritionally speaking.

Daily Diet Necessities

And here's a check list to help you. If the meals you serve your family daily are made up of the following classes of foods, you can rest assured that you are providing a nutritionally adequate diet.

Meat—1-2 servings
Milk—1-3 glasses
Eggs—1-2
Vegetables—2 servings other than potatoes—1 cooked and 1 raw
Fruit—2 servings—1 may be cooked and 1 orange or tomato juice
Butter—3 tablespoons
Cod liver oil—1 tablespoon (even a liberal diet is deficient in vitamin D)
Bread, cereals, sugar and fat to make up the individual energy requirement.

Meat Plays Important Part

The importance of a sufficient amount of meat is obvious when you realize that it supplies nine of the 13 recognized essentials: Protein, fat, phosphorus, iron, copper, vitamin A, thiamine (vitamin B1), riboflavin (vitamin B2), and nicotinic acid, the anti pellagra factor of vitamin B.

Satiety, Palatability Important

In addition to food value, two other factors must be considered in planning the diet: Satiety value and palatability.

Satiety value, or the satisfying quality, is more important than generally realized. Any food will relieve hunger for the time being, but some foods give a feeling of well-being for a longer period of time. Because meat, more than any other food, has this quality of "sticking to the ribs" there is a longer period of satisfaction when it has been part of the meal.

Palatability too is important, for no matter if we know that a food is "good for us," if it doesn't stimulate our appetite and taste good, we don't want to eat. Psychological? Yes, but still important. Again, the place of meat is obvious.

Reserve to Keep Resolution

Balance your family's diet during the coming year by making certain that each day's menu includes meat, two or more servings, eggs, vegetables, fruits, cereals and dairy products.

And seeing that your family gets the right things to eat during the coming year is one resolution that's well worth keeping.

CHICKEN SALAD

4 cups cooked chicken, diced
1/2 cup small sweet pickles, chopped
2 cups celery, sliced fine
2 hard-cooked eggs
2 pickled beets
Salt and pepper
Mayonnaise

Mix chicken, pickles and celery. Add mayonnaise to moisten. Add salt and pepper if needed. Arrange on lettuce. Garnish with sliced eggs and sliced beets and more mayonnaise.

Guest Startling Recipes

Don't you often wish you had a recipe for a salad, a meat dish or a dessert that would be used to bring stares of unbelief and gasps of delight from your guests? Such dishes can be prepared—without any great trouble, at that. They are well worth serving when special guests are being entertained, or even when the family enjoys the evening meal alone. Here are two typical recipes:

Baked Oranges

4 to 6 oranges
3/4 cup light corn syrup
2 cups sugar
2 cups water

Boil whole, unpeeled oranges in water to cover, for about 30 minutes, or until tender. Drain and cool. Cut into halves, quarters or one-half inch slices. Mix corn syrup, sugar and the 2 cups of water together and cook 5 minutes. Pour this syrup over the cooked oranges which have been placed in a baking dish. Cover closely and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 1/2 hours. If orange pieces are not completely covered with syrup, baste frequently. To keep for future use pour into sterilized jars, fill to the top with syrup and seal. Serve baked oranges hot or cold as accompaniment for ham, veal, lamb, pork or roast poultry; or as a salad with cottage or cream cheese.

Whipped Sweet Potatoes in Orange Shells

8 oranges
4 cups boiled or baked sweet potatoes
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons melted butter
8 marshmallows

Cut off tops of oranges and remove pulp and juice with a sharp knife and spoon. Whip sweet potatoes with salt, butter and orange juice to moisten to desired consistency. Use juice secured in preparing shells. Fill orange shells and top each with a marshmallow. Brown in moderate oven until heated through. Serves 8.

Recipes For Soup Lovers

Thousands of people feel a meal incomplete without soup. Others often make a full meal of soup. Many fail to realize what an important dish this is, particularly in cold weather when a rich nutritious soup is in order. Soups containing meat, potatoes, lima beans and other nutritious foods are ideal for cold-weather months. Here are two recipes for your enjoyment:

Lima Chowder

2 cups cooked, dried Limas
2 cups diced potatoes
2 slices fat-salt pork
1 small onion, sliced
1 cup boiling water
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
3 cups hot milk

1 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon pepper
Cut salt pork into dice. Place in a saucepan and cook 5 minutes; add onion and cook until just turning yellow, then add potatoes and boiling water. Cook until potatoes are tender, then add limas. Melt butter, add flour, stir until smooth, then add hot milk; cook, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened, then add lima mixture and seasonings.

Lima and Cabbage Soup

1 cup dried Limas
2 quarts cold water
1 end of pork shoulder
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
1 pound stewed beef cut in small pieces
1 beef bone
1 quart cabbage, sliced
1 onion, sliced
1/2 teaspoon carrot, diced
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Cover Limas with cold water, bring slowly to boiling point, drain and rinse with cold water. Put in large kettle, add cold water, meat and bones, cabbage, onion, carrot, parsley and seasonings. Bring to boiling point and simmer 3 hours. Remove meat and bone. Cool, then remove fat. Re-beat.

A ventilating device for use in brick foundations or other places requiring a small amount of light and ventilation is a cast block of semi-steel with fixed louvers to deflect weather and a screen to keep out insects. It is one brick wide and four high and is mortared in with the brick work.

LEADING AIRCRAFT PLANTS WORKING 24-HOUR BASIS

Industry Pledges Support In Speeding Defense Production

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Most of America's leading aircraft and engine factories are now working "around the clock" to speed up the production of airplanes for national defense and others will be in a position to do so in the near future.

This fact was revealed by Col. John H. Jouett, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, in pledging the National Defense Commission the industry's full support in the drive to arm America in the air.

Amplifying on a recent statement by Defense Commissioner William S. Knudsen on aircraft production, Col. Jouett pointed out that "delays and shortages outlined by Mr. Knudsen have not been of our making."

"Defense Commissioner Knudsen," Col. Jouett continued, "can depend on the aircraft industry for complete and sincere co-operation in his efforts to get 24 hours of production out of each 24 hours at our disposal."

"The full scope of the program is just beginning to unfold. Most of the larger units in the industry already are working on a three-shift, 24-hour basis and others will be in a position to do so soon."

"The industry will welcome suggestions or measures on the part of the government which will permit further acceleration of production effort now restricted by factors beyond our control. These include completion of new factories, increase of sources and volume of machinery and supplies and legal limitation on working hours."

Col. Jouett pointed out that last summer, when the pending procurement schedule was first outlined, the manufacturers warned the Government that its proposed program would require more time and greater facilities than were available, or in sight.

"However," he added, "the manufacturers said they would do everything in their power to carry it out in full. To make this possible, the aircraft manufacturers in the last year added more than 100,000 shop employees and increased productive space from 11,900,000 square feet to 22,500,000 square feet, with approximately the same increase in cost to come."

"That unprecedented expansion and numerous change orders and revisions of new models ordered by the Government resulted in some delays. In spite of that, as Mr. Knudsen points out, we feel the program is moving at a rapidly increasing rate and will be completed successfully if all groups concerned with our national safety give full-hearted support."

Even Cupid Must Eat

By BETTY BARCLAY

Here are some recipes that will be appreciated by those who are celebrating St. Valentine's Day by having a family feast or a frolic with friends:

Valentine Punch
1-1 lb. 4 oz. can sour pie cherries
6 whole cloves
1 stick of cinnamon
1 cup light brown sugar
4 cups canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice
Red vegetable coloring
Pour cherries and their syrup in a saucepan. Add cloves and cinnamon and bring to a boil. Add sugar and simmer for five minutes. Strain mixture through a fine sieve and chill sipped mixture. Combine with pineapple juice, which has been chilled in cans before opening. Add a few drops of red coloring, or enough to make the mixture a bright cherry color. To serve, pour over ice cubes in glasses. Yield: Eight 6-ounce glasses.

Carotene Salad
Toss together lightly with 2 forks:
1 1/2 cups orange pieces
1 1/2 cups finely cut carrot
1/2 cup raisins
Add desired salad dressing to moisten. Serve on lettuce or shredded cabbage and garnish with 1/2 cup chopped peanuts. Serves 6.

Basta Fazool
(a one dish meal)
2 cups cooked, dried Limas
2 cups tomato sauce or strained tomatoes
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1/2 pound spaghetti
6 tablespoons bacon fat
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Cook the spaghetti in boiling salted water until soft and drain.

Cook the onion in the fat, add tomato, Limas and spaghetti.

Individual Strawberry Shortcakes
Individual strawberry shortcakes are attractive for dessert at a Valentine's day luncheon or for party refreshments. The quick-frozen strawberries come all ready to serve—cleaned, hulled, sliced and sweetened, as full of flavor and vitamins as the day they were picked and quick-frozen.

Spread 1 (16 oz.) box quick-frozen strawberries, just thawed, on the lower halves of 4 hot shortcake biscuits, split and buttered. Top with upper halves and additional berries. Garnish with 1/4 cup cream, whipped. Serves 4.

Valentine Rennet-Custard
1 pkg. vanilla rennet powder
1 pint milk, ordinary or homogenized
1/2 cup raspberry jam
1/2 cup whipping cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon sugar
10 lady fingers
3 tablespoons graham cracker crumbs

Set out five dessert dishes. Divide the raspberry jam among them placing about 1 1/2 tablespoons in the bottom of each dish. Cut the lady fingers lengthwise, placing four pieces around the sides of each dish. Make vanilla rennet-custard according to directions on the package. Pour into dessert dishes on top of the jam. Do not move until firm—about 10 minutes. Chill in refrigerator. Just before serving, top with whipped cream, to which sugar and vanilla have been added. Sprinkle with graham cracker crumbs, or place a soft pink candy heart on top of whipped cream.

A children's variation is to cut marshmallows into very fine pieces and arrange in the outline of a heart on top of each rennet-custard just before serving.

Cupid's Brew
6 cups freshly brewed decaffeinated coffee
1/2 cup whipping cream, whipped
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
Top hot decaffeinated coffee with a spoonful of whipped cream into which the spices have been folded. Sugar may be served with the coffee if desired.

Serve decaffeinated coffee at your Valentine's Day party and your guests won't be worried over sleeping problems later on.

Magic Valentine Candies
3/4 cup (7 1/2 oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 cups sifted confectioners' (4X) sugar (about)
Mix sweetened condensed milk and vanilla. Add confectioners' (4X) sugar gradually, mixing until smooth and creamy. Makes 1 1/2 pounds. Roll out on a slightly sugared board about 1/4 inch thick. Cut with a small heart-shaped cookie cutter. Decorate with mottos, such as "To My Love," put on with a water color paint brush dipped in melted chocolate.

You'll be sure of a gay St. Valentine's party if you start your guests off with one of the new parlor games that are easy to learn. Circogammon, an exciting new development of backgammon or Dog Fight, the new airplane maneuvering game played on a vertical board are sure to be party successes.

Accordingly, Mr. Berle believes, we ought now to be taking the essential preparatory steps.

AMONG the things he suggests is that we buy and store now quantities of certain key products of which this hemisphere has a surplus and for which we know there will be eventual need. This is not a new idea, Mr. Berle points out. The Surplus Commodities Corporation has been doing it for some years and it works well. The immediate effect will be that the countries of this hemisphere need not find their economic life endangered because they are temporarily cut off from certain markets. Their people will not have to go hungry because they have too much of something. Close economic co-operation with the countries of South America is the basic Berle thought. No American nation, he says, believes it necessary to run the chance of falling under a European political system in order to be economically safe.

ANOTHER interesting idea of Mr. Berle's is concerned with our gold supply. "It seems fantastic today," he says, "to suggest handing over some of our accumulated gold as a free gift to re-establish international currency, to let other nations set their houses in order and thereby re-establish trade and normal life. But a few years hence this may not seem fantastic at all. It seems impossible today to think of using the enormous and as yet untapped resources of the Federal Reserve System to rebuild the shattered life of another continent, but when the time comes we may find the idea looks like an immediate necessity.

These suggestions give an inadequate idea of the things Mr. Berle has in mind, but they at least show the direction in which he is thinking.

OF course, he urges a re-examination and radical overhauling of our banking system. He recommends a bill creating a Public Works Finance Corporation, with "suitably guarded rediscount privileges at the Federal Reserve banks." He wants a bill to insure loans for small business. And he wants a bill providing for capital credit banks "whose business it should be to provide capital for those enterprises which need it when they need it." He recommends, in fact, a good many other things to supplement private capital with great pools of Federal capital. It is not a new system he proposes, but an adjustment of the old to meet new conditions.

THAT it will work Mr. Berle seems to have no doubt at all, though to laymen he seems somewhat to understate the enormity of the problem and to be slightly vague about how it is to be paid for. However, the book is significant as well as interesting. Of course, some day the war will end. What Mr. Berle shows is that if it ends before 1944 the New Deal is not going to lack reconstruction ideas. They may be good or they may be bad, but they will be ideas. Mr. Berle's book just seethes with ideas.

been set up in the two brick buildings which were formerly used for the "big extracting plant" by Beebe and Sons.

It is reported, although not from an authoritative source, that the contract is for 1200 houses.

The method of work here is for employees to cut out and prepare house-frames for a few days, then the group shifts to backs and to sides. These portions are then sent out in equal quantities, so that the work of fabrication of the complete units can progress in systematic order.

President Celebrates Birthday Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—President Roosevelt was celebrating his 59th birthday today with the enthusiastic assistance of most of the nation.

British Forces Roll Into Derna With the British Forces at Derna, Jan. 30—British and Australian mechanized troops today rolled into Derna, capturing their second major Italian stronghold in eight days, and opened the way to strike at Benghazi in the west almost without resistance.

Fall of Derna, historic Libyan port once seized by the U. S. in 1805, came after a siege of less than a week. British artillery blasted the town's fortifications, and then general motorized and foot troops stormed Derna in a swift frontal attack.

Fresh advances were announced at the same time in Eritrea, Abyssinia, and Italian Somaliland.

"Capture of Derna was completed this morning," said a brief British army bulletin, implying that the Aussies launched their initial attack last night.

Already, it was believed, wheeled units were striking farther towards the west. Only Cirene, 25 miles beyond Derna, lies between the British Empire forces and Benghazi, and it was understood that Marshal Graziani withdrew his major bodies of troops from that base last week.

Derna, city of 11,000, known to the Italians as the "Pearl of the Cyrenaica," occupies one of the few fertile spots of Libya.

The Great Game of Politics

know how many of Mr. Berle's ideas early in the Roosevelt regime have been translated into concrete New Deal achievements and that, as one of the Roosevelt brain trust, he has had a considerable influence upon most of the major Administration experiments.

IT is pleasant to record that Mr. Berle's outlook upon the "new world" is not pessimistic. He does not believe civilization is going to crumble and chaos ensue. On the contrary, so far from being on the brink of disaster, it is his belief that the country is on the eve of one of the most amazingly magnificent periods in history. It is not, he asserts, likely to surrender its heritage of personal freedom in order to bring quite illusory economic security, but it must change its intellectual and economic habits.

MR. Berle does not minimize the terrible situation which will follow the war, nor the difficulties in the way of our supplying the necessary leadership to establish a new system of world organization—"the system of Co-operative Peace" toward which, he says, "a real beginning has been made in Pan America." Our job, according to Mr. Berle, will be to clear up the staggering accumulation of misery, hunger and need which will face the Old World after the war. It is simply enlightened selfishness for us to do that job—first, because no one else can do it; second, because if we do not do it we will suffer very greatly.

Lloyd R. Ney Listed As The Artist of Month at New Hope

The New Hope Art Associates will open the February exhibition on Tuesday, February 4, at the New Hope Art Gallery, located next to the Bucks County Playhouse.

The Artist of the Month will be colorful Lloyd R. (Bill) Ney. Abstractionist, muralist, colorist and philosopher, Ney has lived in New Hope for 15 years, and is one of the most prolific painters in the region. Once winner of the Pennsylvania Academy Travelling Scholarship, he has since forsaken traditional painting to explore and experiment in the organization of color and the inter-relation of forms in painting. He recently completed, and had accepted, the first abstract mural for a U. S. Post Office project, in New London, Ohio.

In addition to his painting, Ney has made his living variously as watchman at a brick plant, and teaching at the Kansas City Art Institute. Ney was the original discoverer of the genius of another well-known New Hope painter, the late Joseph Pickett. American primitive (Museum of Modern Art Whitney Museum, Newark Museum). Admiring two quaint old paintings in local stores, he paid $15 for both, swapped them to a dealer for $50 worth of frames to put on his own pictures. The pictures were "Coryell's Ferry" and "Council Tree," and they are worth more than three hundred times what Ney originally paid for them. Not ignorant of their ultimate value, he recognized that "getting it in cash" is a dealer's game, not his.

Among the canvases that Ney will exhibit in February are the sketches for the mural that were sent to the St. Louis competition and which won for him the job of decorating the Post Office in New London, Ohio; also other designs for mural decorations, and various canvases.

The sketch room of the gallery, rapidly becoming the favorite haunt of many visitors, will continue to exhibit a variety of small, inexpensive works.

"Earth's crammed with heaven, and every common bush afire with God, and only he who sees takes off his shoes." Father in heaven, how much we miss because our eyes do not see. Thou hast clothed the world in beauty—white clouds in the sky, shadows fleeting over the fields, rivers and lakes, reflecting the light of the sun and moon, how manifold are Thy works. In wisdom Thou hast made them all. Unveil our eyes to see Thy glory, Amen.

ON THE SCREENS

BRISTOL THEATRE

Three of the screen's leading young personalities, Fred MacMurray, Ray Milland and Louise Campbell, playing together for the first time, head the cast of the new Technicolor cavalcade of the air, "Men With Wings," now at the Bristol Theatre.

In a story which traces the progress of aviation for 35 years, MacMurray and Milland will be seen as two typical American pioneers of the air, while

Miss Campbell plays the air-minded woman who not only inspires men in their conquest of the sky but devotes her whole life to plane-building and flying.

GRAND THEATRE

Four debuts by five players will be marked in Universal's colorful romantic comedy, "One Night in the Tropics," which will also introduce five new Jerome Kern songs when it opens today at the Grand Theatre.

Most important debut is that of Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, noted stage and radio comedy team sought by many studios since they first scored as network and Broadway stars. Abbott and Costello turned down all movie offers until they accepted important comedy roles in the new film.

Another outstanding Broadway performer, Nina Orla, tiny 18-year-old Mexican songstress and dancer, makes her film debut in the new production.

Nancy Kelly makes her initial appearance as a dancer in the huge "Farandole" production number, and she also sings for the first time in offering Kern's "Your Dream."

RITZ THEATRE

She's sorry of course, but Jane Withers turned loose a wildcat, of all things, in the 20th Century-Fox studio.

The wildest cat really a wild kitten. A film cat presented the cat to Jane and she brought to the set of "You'll Whistle I'll Serve," her latest starring film now at the Ritz Theatre.

Although the cat was in a small cage, it managed to release the catch and escape—at least that's the way Jane explains it.

DRISCOLL STAR OF FALLS - BENSALEM LEAGUE COURT TILT

Falls Defeats Bensalem Team
By the Score of 46 to 29

SCORES 10 FIELD GOALS

Slaven Boys Missed Many Opportunities To Score

Sensational shooting by "Artie" Driscoll featured the game between the Falls Township High School and Bensalem Township High School on the latter's court. Final tabulations were: Falls, 46; Bensalem, 29.

Driscoll wore the hoops clean as he made ten fielders for the night, at least one-half of them coming from the center of the floor. In fact, Driscoll was only two field goals away from the whole Bensalem total.

The boys of "Johnny" Slaven missed many opportunities to score, having more shots at the nets than the visitors from Fallsington but the proteges of "Jimmy" Doherty proved the much more efficient shooters as they sent 22 double-deckers soaring through the rims.

Dick Colbert was Bensalem's best as he made 11 points with Scarborough having 8. Frank Moon also did his share for the winners making 10 points, all via the field goal route.

The highly-touted Fallsington Jay Vees added another win to its list as it "took over" the Bensalem Jay Vees, 45-22. The winners had 19 field goals in this contest and at the half-time whistle were enjoying a 27-6 lead.

Anderson led the winners in scoring with 12 points while Dickie Doyle was close behind with 9 points.

FRANKLIN A. C. TO MEET 5TH WARD CLUB TONIGHT

Will the Franklin team maintain its place in the Bristol Basketball League? This question will be answered tonight on the Italian Mutual Aid court as the Franks meet their arch rivals, the Fifth Ward Sporting Club. In the other encounter, third place will be at stake with Manhattan meeting the Auto Boys. The Franklin team is unbeaten thus far in the second half and nothing would please the Warders better than to be the first club to stop the "kids" of the circuit. The two teams have been rivals in all sports for the past several years and each delights in beating the other.

In their first half meeting, the tilt was close all the way with the winner being decided in the final two minutes of the game. This game attracted the largest crowd of the first half and according to advance reports, tonight's encounter will see a larger crowd that saw the two teams in action before.

Franklin will be well primed for the contest using Barbetta and Sagolla as forwards; Patrick, center; Palumbo and F. Barbetta, guards; Fifth Ward will start Danny Pico and Pica at forward; DeLisio, center; with Capecci and Mancini as guards.

The life-long of the Manhattan team is at stake tonight in its game with the Auto Boys. A defeat for either club practically eliminates them from the second half race.

The playing of the Auto Boys has overshadowed their first half showing and on paper the Manhattaners appear to be headed for trouble, that is, unless Hufnagel and Zeffries have one of their high scoring nights.

First game is scheduled to begin at eight o'clock sharp.

PATERSON BOWLERS GO INTO FIRST PLACE TIE

The Paterson Parchment Paper Company bowling team, by scoring four points, went into a tie for first place, last night, with the Wilson Distilling bowlers. Paterson defeated the Leedom bowlers who have yet to win a point in the second half.

Wilson defeated the Auto Boys who were in a tie for first place until last night.

In other matches the Ford V-8 took three points from the slowly sinking Coffey team. Voltz bowlers also won scoring three points defeating the Odd Fellows.

High men for the night were:

Robinson, of Paterson Parchment Paper team, 582; Blake, of Leedom, 532; J. Bills, of Voltz, 518; Farhinger, Odd Fellows, 496; Kondyra, of Wilson, 584; Lynn, Auto Boys, 550; Juno, Ford V-8, 599; Mazzillo, of Coffey, 600.

WIN FISHING PRIZES

EDGELY, Jan. 30—The Edgely Rod and Gun Club met in the Headley Manor fire station on Monday evening, with President George Bintliff presiding.

The members decided to join the Delaware Valley Protective Association for the years 1941 and 1942. The club is also interested in keeping the lower end of the canal open for fishing purposes.

The fish contest for 1940 was awarded to Luther Hilgendorf, for the longest pike; and to "Buddy" Bachofer for the heaviest bass. The club is interested in securing rabbits for stocking, as the supply of three crates from the state is insufficient. Members are planning at a later date to stock ringneck pheasants, securing money from the different sportsmen to cover same.

At the next meeting, February 17th, there will be entertainment and refreshments. All sportsmen are invited.

Carl F. Schnabel, 1236 W. Hilton street, Philadelphia, represented the purchasers, while Clement N. Righter and William Stuckert, Esq., of Newtown, represented the sellers. Mr. and Mrs. Miller will likely occupy the place this coming summer.

William Ingram is remembered by a few who knew him intimately as a picturesque figure, who looked and was a romantic member of the old school. He had lived early in life at Petersburg, Va., but he came to Philadelphia when his anti-slavery activities got him into difficulties there.

Ingram wore a long white beard. Ingram brought to the notice of other friends and admirers of Walt Whitman the desperate plight of the poet who had suffered greatly from financial reverses. Mr. Ingram was an honorary pall bearer at Whitman's funeral.

The Ingrams had a wide circle of prominent friends in Philadelphia, among them Lucretia Nott, Quaker minister, and William Furnace, Unitarian preacher.

Dr. Emily Ingram Stephens, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ingram, has lived at the Ingram farm for many years.
